

I appear to be rubbing off on others. Not sure that's a good thing :)

Brent has purchased for himself a new 55" widescreen television and a progressive scan DVD player. Although I'm less than thrilled at his choice of Samsung components, I applaud this new foray into the wonderful world of high priced electronics.

Since his site doesn't yet have a working comment system, I thought I would post about it here so people could talk (read: gossip).
