

My Challenge

Today, I have commenced my challenge in accordance with the latest podcast. Jeannine has challenged me to go an entire week without eating out. Since it didn't officially start until today, I took the opportunity to order a pizza from Freeman's Little New York last night and that's what I brought for lunch today. I had a cold slice this morning for breakfast.

This evening, I have to go where I haven't been in many months: The Grocery Store. I hate grocery shopping. Most of the time, I end up buying too much shit because I want to try to extend the time between required trips, and half of it spoils in my fridge because I end up eating out somewhere.

If any of you guys have some good, easy, fast recipes for things that I can make this week, post them here. I'll take them under advisement when I'm at the store.

[Edit 28/11/2005 16:59:23]

Thanks for all the suggestions! I think I'm going to try the Macaroni and Cheese tonight. I'll let you know how it goes.

Originally posted on Monday, 2005-11-28 at 11:33:29.

---

Revision #1

Created 1 February 2022 17:49:23 by Steve Dinn

Updated 1 February 2022 17:49:24 by Steve Dinn